

PORINI AMBOSELI CAMP

SELENKAY CONSERVANCY

Kenya's Leading Tented Safari Camp Brand
Africa's Leading Tented Safari Camp

*"What a marvelous example of how people and wildlife can live alongside one another.
Thank you all" Sir David Attenborough*

Porini Amboseli Camp is located in the Selenkay Conservation Area 15,000-acre private game reserve within a vast tract of land owned by the Kisonko clan of the Maasai people. The Conservancy is an important dispersal area for Wildlife moving in and out of Amboseli and holds a wide diversity of species. In addition to the better-known big game like elephant, lion, cheetah, giraffe and zebra, there are several less common species such as caracal, African wildcat, civet, gerenuk, lesser kudu and striped hyena. Our private four-wheel-drive track links the Selenkay Conservancy to the Amboseli National Park so that we have the advantage of game drives in the park as well as in our own exclusive reserve.

LOCATION

The Selenkay Conservancy is located near the northern boundary of Amboseli National Park. It is 100 miles from Nairobi and a three-hour drive, mostly on tarmac down the Mombasa road. The camp operates a daily transfer by safari-minibus from Nairobi which arrives at the camp around 1pm. The Amboseli airstrip can also be used, with daily flights from Nairobi.

THE CAMP

The Camp consists of nine spacious tents, sited among shady Acacia Tortilis trees, in a spot once favoured by big game hunters. The camp is small and exclusive, accommodating a maximum of 18 guests. It is set up along the lines of traditional hunting safari bush camp, so there are no permanent structures such as bar, restaurant or swimming pool -this is real camping in the bush, but with much more comfortable bathroom arrangements than were available to the hunters of earlier years! The tents are large and comfortably furnished, each with a double and a single bed, solar electric lights, and en suite bathroom with safari shower, washbasin and flush toilet. Meals are taken under the shade of an Acacia tree and after dinner we can sit around the campfire and listen to the sounds of the African night. The camp is staffed entirely by members of the local Maasai community apart from the manager and head chef.

THE EXPERIENCE

All transport on this safari is in a specially designed open-sided Landrover or Landcruiser 4 wheel drive safari vehicle. Going on safari in a 'proper' safari vehicle gives a far better safari experience than traveling in the minibus vans with window seats used by other tour operators! There are no minibuses or other tourists or vehicles in the conservancy, allowing guests to enjoy a unique experience compared to traditional mass-tourist lodges and camps. Maasai warriors escort guests on a walk in the conservancy where they can learn about how the various indigenous animals and plants are used by the community and how their way of life is intertwined with their surroundings. Guests are taken to a local Maasai village where they can experience a little of traditional Maasai village life. Sundowners with views of Mt. Kilimanjaro and night game drives are all part of the experience at Porini Amboseli.

CONSERVATION

The local Maasai community has set aside the Selenkay Conservancy as a reserve for wildlife and in return is receiving an income from such tourism activities. This is used to fund community projects such as schools and water supplies. Employment opportunities have also been provided for the local Maasai people as game rangers, trackers, and camp staff. Apart from the management and Head Chef, all other staff in the camp and Conservation Area are members of the local Maasai community. The 70kms in the Conservation Area were constructed using local labour so that members of the community gained employment. As a result of the establishment of the Conservation Area, wildlife numbers have recovered significantly in recent years and elephants are now seen frequently after an absence of 20 years. Selenkay Conservation Area lies in the heart of Maasai land, well off the beaten track, and has not been visited by tourists until very recently. The animals are truly wild and tend to behave more naturally than those in the parks, which are often habituated to the presence of vehicles.

Our Porini Camp runs and maintains with the conservation of the environment at the forefront. We have a written environmental policy in regards to water, land, energy, solid waste and sewage which adhere to by the camp management. The numbers of tourist visitors are being limited to retain the wild and unspoilt nature of the area and to minimise the impact on the environment.
